Welcome to our Summer newsletter

As we come to the end of another year, it's fabulous to look back and see how much has been going on across our schools, despite the challenges that continue to be caused by the Coronavirus pandemic. Hopefully this summer newsletter provides a flavour of what we've been up to.

This term we saw Coventry start its "City of Culture" campaign and, with it, we've also seen the country go sports-mad. All of the Romero schools participated in the Coventry Torch Relay, Lighting a Flame of Friendship with an original torch from the 1948 Olympics. In total, the torch was passed between 54 schools across the city (see p12 for our school's).

This was a fabulous opportunity for our children to feel part of their wider community, to learn about the Olympic and Paralympic values and to be more physically active. We know the links between physical activity, sport and mental health are really important and we have really missed out on a lot of school sport this year so it was really pleasing to see so much activity across our schools.

I certainly didn't know that we have so many good skippers! Cardinal Wiseman also hosted the Catholic Schools Year 6 cross country and the Romero Sports Day and it is fabulous to see our amazing sporting facilities being used by our students and the wider community (see p.4).

We continue to invest in our estate and I'm sure in our next newsletter we'll be showing you the results of the significant investment that is going in to the hall at Cardinal Wiseman over the summer. The hall at St Gregory's has also been remodelled and re-christened as the Robert Wright hall in honour of Father Bob. Whilst at Corpus Christi a new sensory garden has opened to commemorate Carole Flynn, a much-missed learning mentor, who passed away last year (see p11).

Following the success of the year 4 "Taste of Ancient Greece" event (highlighted in our last newsletter), our fabulous catering staff have teamed up again with our teaching staff to provide a "Taste of India" to year 2 students (see p5). The catering staff have also been touring the schools in the Romero Diner, our catering van, to support events and activities across the schools.

Our Lay Chaplaincy team have also been getting out and about across the schools particularly supporting students who are preparing for their sacraments. As Catholic schools, the theme of vocation is really important to us. We want to inspire our young people and provide everything that we can to become more; so we're delighted to see more case studies coming via the Cardinal Wiseman alumni association.

One recent case study was former student Hannah Warrington, who is now working as a junior doctor within the University Hospitals Coventry and Warwickshire NHS Trust (see p.6). We continue to look for interesting case studies that can help our students think through what their vocations will be and early career case studies are particularly valuable.

As we come to the end of the academic year we say goodbye to staff and students alike. Not all will have spent the 39 years that Mary Ogilvie did (see p9) but all will be missed. To all the staff and students who are leaving us this year, I wish you well.

It will, I am sure, be another strange summer but we are doing lots to prepare for the start of the new academic year. As always we will be waiting for all of the latest guidance and we will keep everyone posted with our plans as soon as we can share them.

With best wishes for the summer.

Great to be competing again

Cardinal Wiseman Catholic School welcomed 120 Year 6 children from 15 schools based across the city to take part in the 800m run.

The event was organised by Andy McConville, Chair of Coventry Catholic Sports and Principal of Good Shepherd Catholic Primary School, as well as Cardinal Wiseman's head of PE Chris Page and Operations Manager Zoe Seth.

Safety was a key priority at the Covid-secure event, with children remaining in their class bubbles while travelling around the school.

The event was supported by the whole of the PE department at Cardinal Wiseman as well as a number of sixth form students studying sport.

Christ the King Catholic Primary School was triumphant in the boys' event, while St John Vianney Catholic Primary School secured first place in the girls' event, and all of those taking part were presented with a special goody bag in recognition of their achievements.

Andy said: "Coventry Catholic Sports has a long history of giving pupils the chance to participate in a range of sports while competing against other schools.

"We have really missed school sport over the last 12 months, so we are absolutely thrilled to be able to start again.

"It was fantastic to welcome children from schools right across the city. They were buzzing with excitement before and bursting with pride afterwards.

"We saw so many incredible sporting performances from pupils showcasing their talents once again.

"Cardinal Wiseman was an excellent venue with plenty of outdoor space so that the event could go ahead while being Covid-secure.

"It also gave those children who will soon be moving on to secondary school an opportunity to visit a Key Stage 3 setting.

"It was great to see Cardinal Wiseman pupils clapping the Year 6 children as they left the site to congratulate them for their efforts."

Chris added: "The event went very well and we have had some fantastic feedback from all of the schools involved.

"All of the children were enthusiastic, gave their all and represented their schools excellently.

"I would like to thank all those who supported on the day, particularly our sixth form students who were fantastic role models to all of the Year 6 children.

"We are very proud at Cardinal Wiseman to be able to support the wider school community with events like this and look forward to hosting more in the future."

Feast day at Ss Peter & Paul

Year 2 children from Ss Peter and Paul Catholic Primary School have taken part in a special day focused on India.

The event saw children take part in geography activities, learn more about significant people through history and explore different religions.

The school also welcomed a number of parents throughout the day who delivered sessions on Indian dress, music and dancing.

The Academy's in-house catering team gave children the opportunity to learn more about Indian cuisine, dishing up a variety of foods including bhajis, samosas, naan bread, chutneys and spiced chickpeas alongside a range of Indian drinks.

The day was held to expand on the topic of India which the children are studying this half term.

Claire Cahill, Year 2 teacher at Ss Peter and Paul Catholic Primary School, said: "The day was a fantastic way to really immerse the children into the topic."

"We are a very multicultural school, and it was excellent to welcome some of our parents to speak about Indian culture and even teach the children some Indian dancing."

"We also have a number of children with family members who live in India and they were given the opportunity to find out more about where their relatives are from and share this with the class."

"Our catering team did a great job at serving up a range of Indian food and drinks for the children to sample, all of which they thoroughly enjoyed."

"At Romero we have an innovative curriculum, and interactive experiences such as this are an excellent way to both enhance learning and help children retain what they have learnt, all while having fun."

Tom O'Reilly, Catering Manager at the Academy, said: "Having an in-house catering service means that we can easily provide our 3,500 children with dynamic experiences which link food with the curriculum."

"It was excellent to see the Year 2 children try the Indian foods, and we look forward to providing even more experiences like this in the future."

Life after Wiseman

We hear from Hannah Warrington on her journey from Cardinal Wiseman to becoming a junior doctor.

School Life

Hannah grew up in the Copeswood area of Coventry and attended Sacred Heart Catholic Primary School before joining Cardinal Wiseman in 2007 and staying on to study at the school's sixth form.

Hannah said: "Cardinal Wiseman was and still does have a wide diverse population of pupils. I believe this gave me a positive and well-rounded outlook on life.

"I learnt a lot throughout my time there. One of the main lessons I learnt was to maintain a good work ethic and have confidence to reach for goals, no matter how big.

"The support from the teachers was outstanding and I really felt like they were behind me in my decision-making, especially when choosing subjects to study at GCSE and A-Level, and then later when deciding which university to apply for.

"The passionate support by the school provided the motivation to get me where I am today."

<https://www.facebook.com/groups/TheWisemanConnection>

Being an academic pupil meant Hannah attended many after-school lessons, which were particularly useful around exam times and demonstrated that the pupils' best interests were always the priority at the school.

Not only did Hannah enjoy the more studious subjects, she also enjoyed the arts which gave pupils the opportunity to flourish in more practical subjects. Her creativity meant lessons such as textiles, art and design technology were some of her favourites between Year 7 and Year 9.

When reflecting on some of her fond memories of the school, Hannah said: "It wasn't all about the classroom. There were also a lot of fun school trips which included Alton Towers, Thorpe Park, Dol-y-moch and many trips to London to watch West End theatre productions or to go sightseeing and shopping.

The best part about my experience at the school is making lifelong friends who I still turn to for support and have a good old laugh about the fun memories.

After completing her degree, Hannah successfully applied for a job as junior doctor at University Hospital Coventry - a role which has seen her work on the frontline during the Covid-19 pandemic.

Career

Hannah then went on to study medicine at the University of Birmingham and gained a lot of experience working in hospitals across the area.

She said: "Birmingham has diverse population in many different aspects, and I believe my time at Cardinal Wiseman helped prepare me for that and gave me an edge that many other medical students didn't have.

"The work ethic had also stayed with me and I managed to gain my degree with hard work and determination."

"I also get the chance to work with some amazing and inspiring people. I think that the Covid-19 pandemic has really shown how great our NHS is and how versatile we can be when put under unforeseen circumstances with unpredictable outcomes.

"I worked on the respiratory ward during the pandemic which meant that I was dealing with Covid-19 positive patients all day, every day. We all really learnt about how to treat this virus together and the team spirit was phenomenal.

"Being a junior doctor makes you learn many qualities and skills very fast. Communication is the biggest factor in this when talking to patients or speaking to colleagues and I believe that my experience at Cardinal Wiseman helped me with this, particularly through its career days and their encouragement to give classroom presentations."

Medicine has many career paths and Hannah is hoping to become a GP.

She said: "I feel that this career allows you to get to know your patients and build a rapport like no other specialty does.

"General practice offers variety to each day by the type of patients who are seen and the problems that are presented. There is also great flexibility with work-life balance which is important in any career choice."

Advice to pupils

When speaking about the advice she would give to current pupils, Hannah said:

"My greatest advice would be to believe in yourself and never give up.

"If you haven't decided on what you want to get out of life don't put too much pressure on yourself. There is a big world out there inviting you to explore it!"

Community engagement on our new 3G pitch

Corpus Christi Catholic Primary School is supporting its local community by opening its new multi-purpose sports pitch to the public.

Not only does the pitch benefit the school's pupils, it is also being leased out to a number of local sports teams.

A total of eight local football clubs as well as a football coach are currently taking advantage of the high-quality facility, meaning that children aged between five and 18 are making use of it almost every day of the week.

Kevin Shakespeare, Principal at Corpus Christi, said that it is fantastic to see the pitch benefitting the community.

He said: "At Corpus Christi we strive to ensure our pupils have a well-rounded education, which includes providing the very best opportunities outside of the classroom."

"Our 3G pitch means that the children can play sports all year round on a professional pitch that they can be proud of."

"We very much see physical activity as a core subject and this facility is a place which allows children to build their teamwork skills, develop resilience and grow their talents."

"The pitch has been built to FA and RFU standards for football and Rugby and also caters for Gaelic football teams."

"It's excellent that we have been able to open it to the local community, giving young people from across the area the opportunity to use a top-class facility where they can feel inspired."

"It's always been extremely important that the facility benefits as many people as possible so it's brilliant that we already have so many teams making use of the pitch, and in truth it has been difficult to accommodate every enquiry that we have received due to the fantastic level of interest it has attracted."

Further information about the 3G pitch is available by visiting <https://corpuschristi.coventry.sch.uk>

Fond farewell

Mary Ogilvie joins one of the classes at St Gregory's Catholic Primary School as part of the celebrations.

St Gregory's Catholic Primary School has bid a fond farewell to Mary Ogilvie who worked at the school for 39 years.

A special assembly was held in Mary's honour where she was presented with cards and gifts by the children who also enjoyed a celebratory lunch. They then formed a guard of honour as she did one final lap of the school, gathering memory books made by each class.

Mary began working at the school, in 1982, when her son Arron attended, and more recently her grandson, Alfie.

Amongst the generations of children she has cared for in the school playground, some have become colleagues, including Interim Head of School Megan Scullion.

Her time at the school was also recognised at a 'Romero Celebrates' event in 2019, where she and other colleagues across the Academy were presented with long service awards.

Mary said: "I've really enjoyed my time working at St Gregory's. My role was to be there for the children whenever they needed me, and make sure their play was safe and fun, although I've lost count of the number of bumps, grazes and scrapes I've tended to over the years."

"It's been rewarding to see so many children start their school years at St Gregory's before moving on to begin their next chapter in life – and later to see them all grown up with children of their own."

"I will miss the children for their energy and enthusiasm for life. My whole experience at St Gregory's has been truly heart-warming and has gone in the twinkling of an eye."

"I had a fantastic last day at school and I'd like to thank everyone for making it so special. I'd also like to wish the staff, children and the Romero Catholic Academy all the very best for the future."

Interim Head of School Megan Scullion added: "I, like countless others, have some very fond memories of Mary as a lunchtime supervisor, and it has been a pleasure to go on to work with her at the school."

"She is an extremely popular member of staff who is very kind-natured with a cheery disposition. She will be thoroughly missed by children and staff alike, and we wish her well in her retirement."

Patrick Taggart, Director of Operations at the Romero Catholic Academy, commented: "It is an amazing achievement and Mary has been a backbone of the school for almost 40 years."

"We are so proud of our staff and the great work they carry out to ensure our children enjoy their school years. We wish Mary all our thanks, blessings and a long and happy retirement."

Mary was presented with gifts, cards and memory books on her final day as lunchtime supervisor.

Catholic School Sports event at Warwick University

We had a fantastic afternoon at the Catholic School Sports event at Warwick University.

Our Pupils looked incredibly smart and were a credit to themselves and their schools. We were delighted to be supported by Year 9 pupils from Cardinal Wiseman, who helped lead the activities. St Patricks, St John Fisher and Good Shepherd were placed in the top 5 positions, which is our best ever result.

Corpus Christi's gardening club

Members of Corpus Christi's gardening club working on the new sensory garden.

Corpus Christi Catholic Primary School is launching the new garden in memory of learning mentor Carole Flynn, who passed away last year.

The garden is being made possible thanks to a £7,000 donation from the Wooden Spoon, a rugby charity which funds projects that support children and young people with disabilities or living in disadvantaged areas, after it heard about the loss of Carole and her inspirational work supporting some of the school's most vulnerable children.

The garden will feature different seasonal plants which stimulate the senses, a sensory path made from a range of materials, a variety of musical chimes and bedding plants which have been grown by the children in the school's new polytunnel.

It will also include a seating area which can be used for outdoor learning or one-to-one sessions as well as a remembrance corner, not only to remember Carole, but to support any child or staff member experiencing loss.

Corpus Christi Principal Kevin Shakespeare said the garden is a fitting tribute to Carole, who loved the sunshine and had a genuine passion for supporting those children who needed it the most.

He said: "The sensory garden will be used by the whole school, with a particular focus on our most vulnerable children or those going through a tough time."

"That is why we wanted to dedicate this space to Carole. She not only loved being outdoors in the sunshine wearing one of her many infamous pairs of sunglasses, but she was truly dedicated to supporting the children and the garden will benefit those children she would have worked with."

"It will provide a real oasis for the children - a safe space that they can feel at ease or a place where they can reflect."

"It will also provide an area for outdoor lessons and give the children the opportunity to grow their own plants."

"Creating the garden was a huge team effort as we wanted to make the fantastic funding from Wooden Spoon go as far as possible, so the school staff who were able to get involved in the true Corpus Christi spirit."

"We would like to say a huge thank you to Wooden Spoon for helping us to create a lasting legacy for Carole."

"She was at the heart of both the school community and the Willenhall community and we know that the garden is a space she would have loved."

The garden is based in view of the school's new prayer courtyard, which has been redesigned to signify the Catholicity of the school.

It includes seating as well as a large crucifix which is illuminated at night, providing a space not just for prayer but also practical lessons, workshops and performances.

Olympic flame arrives at Romeo

A total of 54 schools across the city are participating in 'Coventry's Flame of Friendship' which is currently seeing a 1948 Olympic Torch passed from school to school, and our schools were lucky enough to take part!

The event is being held to celebrate Coventry's friendship with Tokyo 2020 volunteers, build links between Coventry schools, encourage children to be more physically active and promote the Olympic and Paralympic values, especially that of friendship.

Each received the torch as well as a London 2012 relay baton with messages of friendship attached from a neighbouring school before passing it on the following day.

Children from across the Academy were not only given the opportunity to see the torch up close and add messages to the baton, but enjoy a day of Olympic-themed lessons which covered everything from the history of the event and the torch itself as well as a look at which countries take part to sports sessions where pupils were able to take part in a mini Olympic Games of their own.

Some schools even had an Olympic-themed lunch menu to mark the occasion.

Cardinal Wiseman was one of just two secondary schools to take part in the event.

Chris Page, Head of PE at the school, said: "Receiving the Olympic torch was a fantastic experience for our school community, and it helped bring us closer to other schools in the process."

"The students were very excited to hold the torch and see a piece of Olympic history up close, and we were inundated with requests for photos!"

"We hosted an assembly about the Olympic value of friendship and the origins of the torch and kept the theme running throughout the day – including holding our very own mini Olympics."

"The following day our team of students, accompanied by myself and the Guardian Ballers, a Coventry & Warwickshire Mind Children and Young People's service which facilitates opportunities through basketball, ran the torch to Moat House Primary School."

"We were overwhelmed by the guard of honour that we received from their children ranging from Reception to Year 6 - it was an incredibly special moment."

"All in all it was a fantastic and enriching experience for all of those that were involved."

Speaking about the experience at St Gregory's Catholic Primary School, Interim Head of School Megan Scullion added: "It was an amazing event and gave us an opportunity to come together and celebrate something as a whole school community."

"The past year has been incredibly challenging, but this really felt like the light at the end of the tunnel and all of the children loved taking part."

"Everyone was given the opportunity to hold the torch and we held plenty of Olympic-themed lessons throughout the day."

Coventry
UK CITY OF CULTURE 2021

Coventry week at Ss Peter and Paul

Children at Ss Peter and Paul Catholic Primary School have taken part in a special event exploring the past and present of their home city, enjoying a range of activities as part of a week focused on Coventry.

Reception, Year 1 and Year 2 classes welcomed Coventry children's author Aaron Ashmore who read his illustrated books about the city to the pupils and also handed out free copies.

Reception put their baking skills to the test to make some infamous Coventry God Cakes, while Year 1 took a step back in time to welcome Coventry's official Lady Godiva Pru Porretta who spoke to the children about the historic figure.

Transport was a focus for Years 2 and 3, with Year 2 visiting Coventry Transport Museum to find out more about the city's connection to bicycles and Year 3 learning about Coventry-born engineer Sir Frank Whittle, who is credited with inventing the turbojet engine, as part of a visit to the Midland Air Museum.

Year 4 went into the city centre to learn about Coventry's connection to Ska music, while Year 5 enjoyed an online question-and-answer session with former Coventry City Football Club player Marcus Hall.

Year 6 also visited the city centre to create artwork based around the iconic three spires.

Principal Lorraine Stanton said:
"The children had a wonderful time during our week focused on Coventry."

"We look to offer a variety of enriching learning experiences, and this was an excellent way to not only bring the city's history to life but for the children to learn about modern day Coventry."

"The event was postponed from earlier in the year, but ended up being perfectly timed to coincide with the start of Coventry's year as City of Culture."

"We'd like to thank everyone who helped make the week so enjoyable for the children and to those who gave their support to ensure it could still go ahead in a Covid-secure way."

"We'll certainly be looking to do more activities about Coventry during the next 12 months during our year as City of Culture."

Leading edge ICT at St John Fisher

Staff at St John Fisher have relished the challenges of remote learning thanks to a new online teaching platform, which not only allowed youngsters to make the most of home-schooling but is now supporting them to catch-up after time away from the classroom.

The Primary School teamed up with the Tablet Academy to offer pupils personal tutelage and one-to-one support during the pandemic while reducing the amount of time teachers spend on administrative tasks.

The 1:1 Student Device Programme was designed by Tablet Academy to maximise the potential of remote learning for students across the country, and staff at St John Fisher Catholic Primary School received bespoke one-to-one training to incorporate the programme into all aspects of their professional lives.

The scheme enables staff to streamline administrative tasks by making them paperless and thus both environmentally friendly and safer to share with colleagues in light of Covid-19 restrictions.

The programme has also given teachers a platform to develop engaging interactive classes, which are delivered via Microsoft Teams, for children to catch-up on all subjects and enhance their digital skills, reducing the impact on primary school learning caused by the pandemic.

The assessment of pupils' work has also been made easier thanks to the Tablet Academy, as teachers have been able to give instant feedback and track the progress of children on individual tasks as well as cooperative assignments with classmates.

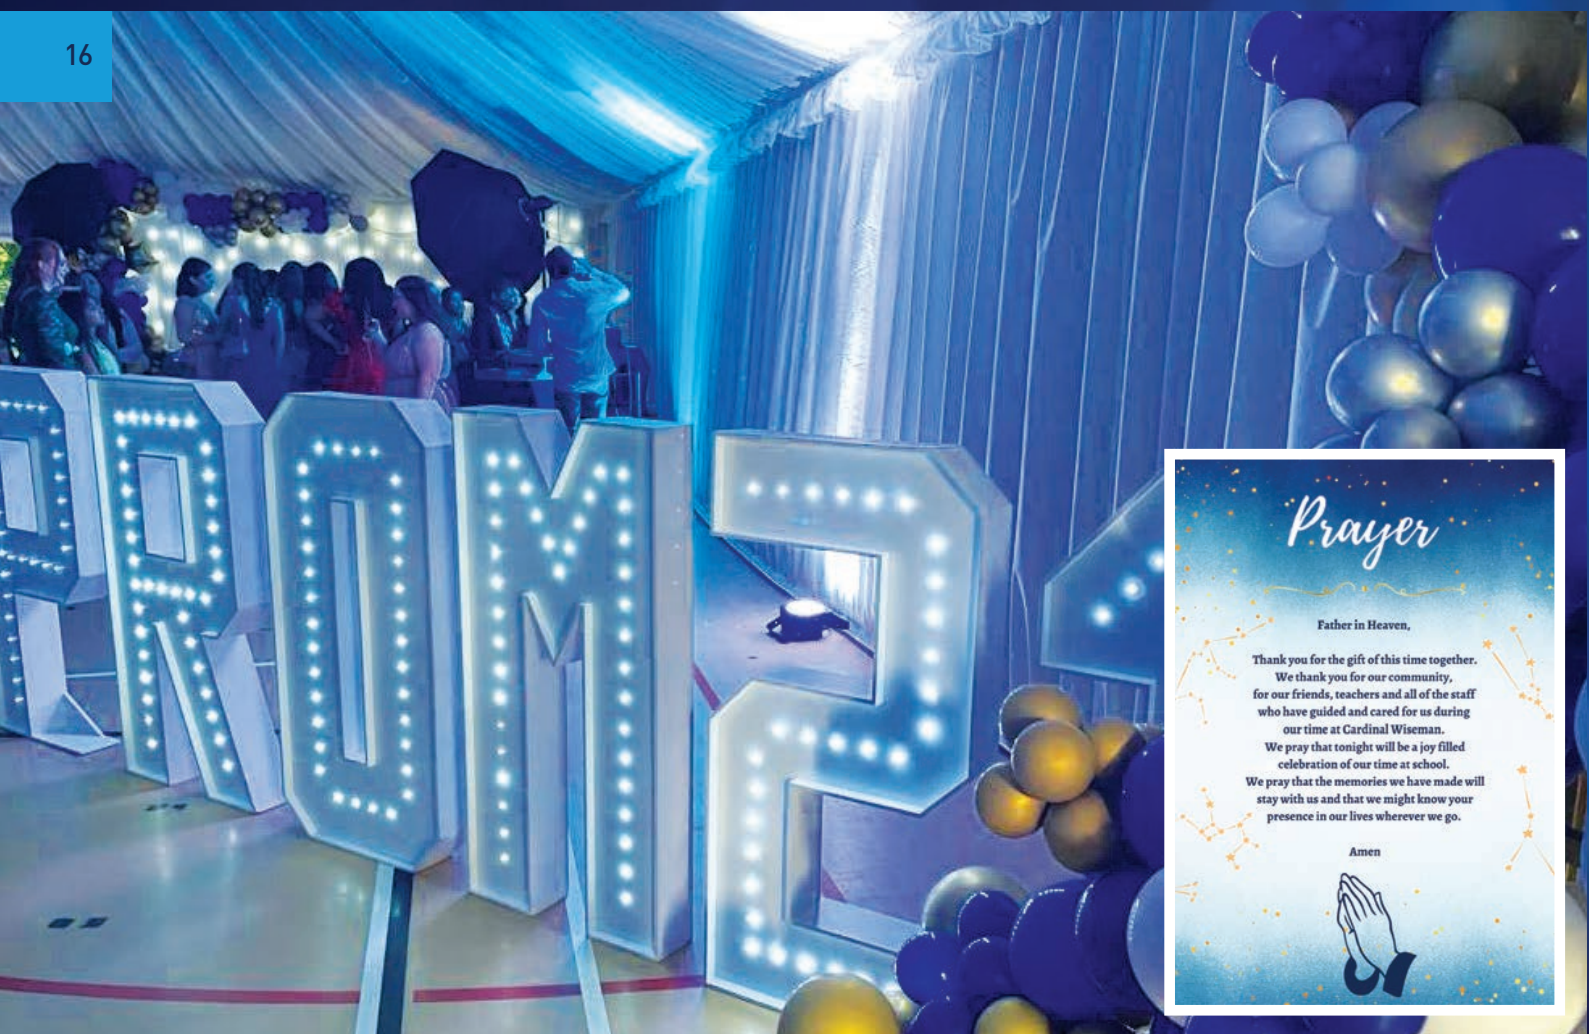

Linda Edge, Vice Principal at St John Fisher Catholic Primary School, said: "The one-to-one programme with the Tablet Academy has ensured that we were able to meet the individual needs of children in two of our Year 5 classes and respond to the difficulties brought about by the pandemic."

"Children can progress at their own speed much more freely with the 1:1 device programme, while staff have been able to better manage their workload each day and spend more time focussing on their pupils' needs."

"The Tablet Academy has provided the expertise and technical knowledge to help us move from individual local server-based schools to a company-wide consistent platform. The pilot programme has been a real success and we are now looking at ways to implement digital strategies into our day-to-day activities both at school and when remote learning is required."

"We would urge all schools in Coventry and Warwickshire to look at the impact the programme has had on our ability to overcome the challenges of the pandemic and the move to digital learning."

Our first in-house Prom for year 11

The staff of Cardinal Wiseman Catholic School were delighted to welcome our Year 11 Class of 2021 back to site on the evening of Friday 2 July, for the first ever in house Prom.

The event, which had been organised by Zoe Seth (Operations Manager), saw 150 pupils and 40 members of staff descend in formal attire for an evening of celebration, reward and of course - lots and lots of dancing.

The event itself came together thanks to the hard work, passion and dedication of Cardinal Wiseman staff - including Lynette Taylor (Head of Year 11) - but also members of the local community across the city of Coventry. The weeks leading up to the event saw a number of NHS Heroes, Coventry College beauty specialists and owners of local businesses, coming together to create the most spectacular and memorable event possible.

Zoe Seth said following a tumultuous time, the team and I were determined to ensure that the students of 2021, were not forgotten. Celebrating our students, especially after this last year, has remained high on the agenda of the entire faculty and has been driven by members of the local community in collaboration with the school. We are incredibly grateful for the continued generosity and support we have received over the last year, and more particularly - in the planning and delivery of this special event.

While a number of the students were treated to complimentary beauty makeovers, as a reward for their hard work and resilience over the last 12 months, the John Paul II Sports Hall also received its own makeover with the installation of a new drapes system, which transformed the space into a marquee. The National Motor Museum very kindly donated a number of resources in the forms of tables, linens and crockery, while local business owners Stayce (Signature Events) and Samm (Venyou Events Limited) worked with Zoe & Lynette to add the final touches of glamour, truly giving a 'wow factor' that left students and staff gobsmacked as they arrived for the evening.

Lynette Taylor (Head of Year 11) said it was truly wonderful to see the smiles of happiness on the students faces. The last 16 months has not been easy on any of the students, particularly Year 11. As their Head of Year, it was fantastic to be able to give them something that they will remember for years to come and to celebrate their successes at Cardinal Wiseman.

Throughout the evening, attendees were treated to a splendid two course menu, which had been designed in collaboration with two of the Year 11 students, and served by the schools new in-house catering team, led by the evenings host, Tom O'Reilly (Head of Catering). During the second course, the sounds of whoops and cheers took over, as Lynette - joined by Kirsti Greenway (Head of Key Stage 4) - took to the stage to reward numerous students with individual awards recognising their achievements and memorable moments from their time at the school.

Helen Quinn CEO said she was incredibly proud of the pupils and delighted that the school was able to provide them with such a special evening. She added that we will be having more events in the hall in future now that we have the ability to transform the space and will welcome community groups to use the facility over the coming months and years.
